Hunt Completes Casting Of Comedy 'Blithe Spirit'

Bray, Adams And Strong To Play Leads In Coward's Broadway Hit

By Ronald King

The team of Bray and Adams was temporarily disbanded this week as James Lee Bray was awarded the top role, that of Charles Condomine, in Blithe Spirit, the December offering of the William and Mary Theatre.

James, a navy veteran, has seen extensive service with the college players, scoring his greatest success with twin brother Ben as Dromio in Comedy of Errors. Almost inevitably accompanied by his identical frater, Jim sheds the other half of the act in taking the lengthy leading part which was done on Broadway by suave Clifton Webb.

In selecting the cast of seven for Noel Coward's spirited comedy, Miss Althea Hunt, theatre director, included two newcomers and an equal number of holdovers from the recent Skin of Our Teeth.

Nancy Adams, seen briefly in last season's Comedy of Errors, will haunt the Phi Beta stage as Elvira, Charles' first wife who saunters out of her coffin, much to the consternation of Charlie and company. Susan Strong, making her first start after a leading role in Arms and the Man in her freshman year, will portray the second wife, Ruth.

Having just completed a turn behind the wheel as the fortune-teller in The Skin of Our Teeth, Mary Gerschank is beginning to believe in type-casting. In Blithe Spirit she will be Madame Arcati, the seance specialist who "has the spirit."

J. Wilfred Lambert, dean of students, announced today that "In accordance with the regulation stated on page 39 of the current catalogue, absence from classes on Wednesday, Nov. 26, preceding Thanksgiving, or on Friday, Nov. 28, following Thanksgiving will result in the student's being placed on absence probation.

"The regulation applies to attendance at all classes on the days preceding and following Thanksgiving and not simply to the last class before and the first after the holiday," he stated.

Delegates To Attend IRC Regional Meeting

Students representing 18 colleges in four states will attend the IRC conference here on Friday and Saturday, Nov. 14 and 15.

The theme of the conference is "Peace—Through a Balance of Power or World Government?" Delegates to the conference will register in the Great hall of the Wren building from 9 to 11:30 a. m. on Friday and will then convene in Phi Beta Kappa hall for a general meeting.

From 1:30 to 4 p. m., delegates will divide into groups for round table discussions. George Saute will be guest speaker at a general meeting in Phi Beta Kappa hall at 8 p. m.

The conference will continue on Saturday with a debate in Phi Beta Kappa hall at 9 a. m. The William and Mary and Randolph-Macon teams will debate on the topic "Resolved: That a Federal World Government Be Created." Round table discussion groups will reconvene from 10 to 11:30 a. m. The closing session of the conference will be held at 1 p. m. in Phi Beta Kappa hall. The delegates will tour Williamsburg from 2 to 5 p. m.

Navy Representative Will Reward College At Convocation Friday

A representative of the Fifth Naval District will present a Navy award for service in training naval personnel to the college at the annual Honors convocation on Friday, Nov. 14, at 10 a. m. in Phi Beta Kappa hall.

Speakers at the convocation will be Howard Hyle, president of the student body, and Col. Giles R. Carpenter, professor of military science and tactics. Dr. Donald W. Davis, recording secretary of Alpha of Virginia, will introduce the members-elect of Phi Beta Kappa.

The president's aides will be presented by Bren Macken, chief aide. Class officers, officers of the student body and members of the men's Honor council will be introduced by John E. Hocutt, dean of men. Dr. Katherine R. Jeffers, dean of women, will introduce officers of the WSCGA, the women's Honor council and the judicial committee.

The choir, under the direction of Carl A. Fehr, will sing the traditional "William and Mary Hymn" and "Only Begotten Son" by Gretchaninoff. Dr. John E. Pomfret, president of the college, will preside over the event.

Freshmen To Choose Officers Tomorrow

DeWitt, Hendrich, Moe, McKean Nominated For Class Presidency

Freshmen will go to the polls in Phi Beta Kappa hall tomorrow from noon until 6 p. m. to elect a complete slate of class officers and assemblymen. Juniors will select a representative to the Student assembly and seniors, a representative to the men's Honor council.

Nominees for president of the freshman class are Pete DeWitt, Robert Hendrich, Christian Moe and John (Unkie) McKean. Richard Carter, Thomas Evans, William Grady and William Wilbur are candidates for the office of vice president. Elizabeth Bartlett, Suzita

Cecil, Jean Murphy and Jerry Tuttle are nominees for the office of secretary-treasurer. Candidates for the post of historian are Ann Giesen, Betsy Graves, Mary Hunter Jones and Pattie Lambert.

Three assemblymen will be chosen from eleven candidates, Joseph Callaway, Harold Cox, Hugo Ferchau, Al Fitzgerald, Tip Hill, J. P. Morgan, Mark McCormack, Richard Reymier, James Sawyer, Phillips Weaver, Douglas Weiland, and Doug Williams. The three women representatives to the Student assembly will be chosen from a slate consisting of Winifred Blatchford, Marianna Brose, Margaret Buckman, Mary Anne English, Doris Hamilton, Betty Hicks, Mary Lou Hoover, Gladys Joyner, Janet Lasky, Virginia Lynch, Kitty Nottingham and Elizabeth Roberts.

The five junior men running for the Student assembly post are George Bacon, Dick Carter, James Sluss, Harrison Tyler and Edgar (Woody) Wayland.

Robert Chappell, John Gordon, Robert Hewitt and Robert Quakenbush are nominees for the office of senior representative to the men's Honor council.

Athey Suggests Change In Laws

Tom Athey, chairman of the committee to investigate the dance committee, suggested that a new committee, composed of the chief President's aide, the president of the German club and the president of Mortar Board, be created at a meeting of the Student assembly held last Tuesday night.

If adopted, this suggestion would necessitate an amendment to Article IX, of the student government constitution, which states that the dance committee shall be composed of the four class presidents and representatives of various campus social organizations. Ed Ward moved that a committee be appointed to help supplement and incorporate Athey's plan. Athey will select the members of this committee.

Fletcher Cox resigned his post as chairman of the publications committee. The new chairman will be elected at the next meeting of the assembly.

Walter Raymond volunteered to serve as chairman of the publicity committee for Homecoming. Howard Hyle, president of the student body, presented the student government budget for the year. Reports of the various committee chairmen were presented.

Inoculations against influenza

A and B are again available at the college infirmary for students and other members of the college personnel desiring it. There is a charge of one dollar for the vaccine which should be paid at the treasurer's office before reporting to the infirmary for the "shot."

St. George Tucker Speaks At Dinner

"It is our responsibility to make the last half of the 20th century noticeable for the advancement of Christian ideals," declared the Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, former Presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, at the Union Supper, held by the Canterbury club on Sunday night at the Bruton Parish house.

Choosing as his topic "Christianity in Japan," Bishop Tucker briefly outlined the history of missionary work in Japan and went on to show the religious responsibility of the people of the victorious western nations towards that country today, both individually and collectively. "The influence of Christianity is the greatest single influence in Japan today," he stated. "Only when we present a common front of Christianity to the world can we hope to show Christianity in its true form to the rest of the world," he added.

Bishop Tucker spent the first part of his career as a missionary in Japan, where he was first president of St. Paul's College in Tokyo and later Bishop of Kyoto. He remained in the Far East for 24 years, continuing his missionary work.

Election, Campaigning

One of the biggest gripes on this campus during the past few years concerns lack of efficiency on the part of class and student government officers. Everyone must assume responsibilities in order to have an effective government in any democratic group. To us this responsibility means exercising the privilege of voting and choosing competent leaders.

In past elections, and notably upperclass elections, voting has been exceedingly light. Yet it is the upperclassmen who do all the complaining. If we want to have a voice in deciding who shall be our leaders and spokesmen, everyone must vote. If students are not interested enough to vote, let them keep quiet on how campus organizations are run. We urge everyone to get out and vote wisely tomorrow.

It is interesting to note the complete lack of campaigning on the part of upperclass nominees. Everyone knows who is running for the freshman class offices, but very few know the names of those competing for upperclass posts. Not a few people will casually mark the name that is most familiar to them. We believe campaigning is a healthy thing if it is carried on in an orderly manner. We wonder if the candidates for the upperclass offices are sincere about their wishes for election, or whether they want something beside their names in the Colonial Echo.

Lb. Moore Points Out

Ingredients Of Rushing

Last week we attempted to lay the groundwork for a little advice to freshman women and transfers who will be "going through" rushing this rush season. While columnists are prone to advice-giving, and we seem to be falling in step, this is one instance where a little woman-to-woman chat may help, since a "no-sorority talk" regulation bars most advice to you.

And we've been squeezed through this mill often enough to have made a few observations that may come in handy for those of you who are not familiar with the sorority system.

The first decision you will be confronted with is whether to be a sorority member at all. Take into consideration such factors as the money it will cost you, the tremendous amount of time a sorority demands, the fact that one day you will be expected to live in the house. And, perhaps most important, the fact that you will, of necessity, narrow your scope of friendship somewhat. On the other hand, there are advantages, such as the accompanying social prestige and the close tie you can have that will enable you to develop stronger friendships. And there is the more superficial advantage of social activities in which sororities indulge. A national sorority also provides "alum" organizations which provide good contacts after one is out of college.

But bear in mind that you can have a successful and happy college career without joining up for a four-year hitch. Get the kinks out of your set of values and honestly look at the sorority system as a whole in making up your mind if you want to become immersed in such a system. And it is immersion—a sorority requires loyalty that supersedes all else.

Assuming that you do decide to become a member, there is the real problem of which one to select.

It is not too early to look over the local chapters and get an extra-rushing picture of them. Familiarize yourself with the pins shown in the Indian Handbook, and then familiarize yourself with the girls who wear those pins. But, do not base your opinion of a chapter on its outstanding leaders who are the minority of a chapter, and who usually are seniors and not long for this college.

Look, rather, at the type of girls who have been attracted before and who represent the things you want most from college such as social life, activities or high scholarship. Then look a little further beneath the rushing smiles and try to detect the group personality. If you perceive a strong similarity among the girls you will probably find that that particular sorority handles its members with a strong arm and attempts to "type" its members. You will, of necessity, lose part of your individuality by joining a Greek letter group, but make up your mind how much individuality you are willing to relinquish, and hold that foremost in your mind when you decide.

This makes the recipe for how to select a sorority sound almost impossible. And don't forget an unknown ingredient—you will have to be chosen before you can choose.

The best answer to the problem is to BE NATURAL at all times, especially during rushing. You harm yourself if you're otherwise. Give the sorority an opportunity to help decide in which groups you will be most compatible and happy.

Give it some thought!

Neighbors Climb Aboard Ronald King's William and Mary-Go-Round

When the room assignments were released last August and your boy found himself scheduled to occupy the latrine on the fourth floor of Old Dominion Hall, he decided that it was time for a change. A room off campus was the obvious solution.

Finally found a prospective roommate, another unfortunate who had been assigned quarters in a warped kettle drum in the basement of the music building. With an excellent reference from the college sanitation office in one hand and a pound of flesh in the other, off we went in quest of a niche in the colonial city. Sans cameras, guide maps and other items which identify one as a tourist, we were treated as though we had zymotic varicose veins.

Halfway to Toano, we spotted a cozy little crypt with a "Room for Rent" sign nailed to the garage door. Our hearts pounded furiously as we rang the bell of the house. The landlady appeared, heard our plea, and proceeded to explain that "we don't want any rowdy roomers here. We want tenants who are quiet, very quiet. Do you have any children?"

"None to speak of."

"Do you have a radio or phonograph?"

"No."

"Do you play any musical instruments?"

"No."

"Do you have a dog, cat, or parrot?"

"No, but my fountain pen scratches like hell sometimes."

At length we contracted to rent the room. Eyeing each other suspiciously, we requested the landlady to remove the love seat in favor of two occasional chairs.

Aside from the fact that we had to rise with the crowing roosters to make our ten o'clock classes, we were rather happy in our little stall. Then, came the revolution! We discovered that a newlywed couple, a Mr. and Mrs. Vermin, lived on the same floor in an adjacent chamber. Our first meeting with Mrs. V. was under rather strange circumstances. We were lying in the sack in our unmentionables when she charged into the room.

"Hello, boys. Hear you're going to be our neighbors. I'm Mrs. Vermin. Live next door."

We tried to cover ourselves, the roommate grabbing a towel, yours truly shading himself with a copy of Criminal Law and Its Enforcement.

The woman noted our hurried efforts and waved her hand in pooh-poo fashion.

"Poo-poo," said she. "Don't be so juvenile."

It seems that Mrs. Vermin believed that as a bona fide married woman who was now familiar with the mysteries of mankind, she was entitled to view the species in general. We disagreed.

Mr. Vermin, a man who can be described only in that he has a blemish between his two ears, was a salesman. He sold Vicks inhalers and delighted in repeating the foul gag that he was one guy who sticks his business in other people's noses. He looked like he was going out of his mind and that his mind was glad he was leaving.

Vermin persisted in showing us a picture of his mother-in-law, always the same picture. When, out of kindness, we asked him if he had any other shots of the lady, he told us that he had, but treasured this particular photo because it was the only one in which she had her mouth shut.

We succeeded in warding off the company of this charming couple by posting a notice of quarantine for cholera on the door.

Other inconveniences soon appeared. With the first big rain we discovered what the landlady meant when she assured us that we would have running water in the room. One day the roommate mustered tremendous courage and reprimanded the woman for her negligence in caring for our quarters.

"Look at the dust on this table," he shouted. "Why, I can write my name in it!"

"You college boys are all the same," she countered. "Always flaunting your education in other people's faces."

One month, as we torked over our G.I. checks in toto in payment of the rent, we asked the landlady when she was going to start giving us bus service to and from the college. (A previous tenant had informed us that she would get us coming and going.)

In addition to our other woes, we had to contend with the lovely children of the household. We remember distinctly Hallowe'en night. One of the kids, a lad of about seven, dropped up to the room clothed in a pirate's costume (a family heirloom, no doubt). He posed the traditional Hallowe'en question: "Trick or treat?" This for the benefit of those who have misspent their youth, implies that one must give the child some "goodies" or the latter will play a trick on the party involved.

Partly because we didn't want to relinquish our last box of "Good n' Plenties," but primarily because we wanted to see what ingenuity the kid had, we answered, "Trick!" The younger generation never ceases to amaze. The little fellow whipped out a hand grenade and tossed it into our clothes closet. Next Hallowe'en, brethren, we're stocking up on Hershey bars or chloroform, one or the other.

And the moral to this story is clear: If all of us students at William and Mary were placed end to end, we'd look ridiculous as hell, wouldn't we?

Letters To The Editor Discuss

Student Government, Saving Food, Alma Mater

To the Editor:

There is, or at least is supposed to be, student government in this college. Part of the organization of student government is a body known as the Assembly, that, according to the constitution as found in the Indian handbook, has considerable power. Most of the members have been elected, and the others soon will be, and the organization has, I understand, been meeting over quite a period of time. Why then, do we not learn anything of its activities?

Each action that the Congress in Washington takes is reported all over the country. No actions of the Assembly have received notice. The fact is this: the students do not know what goes on in their own student government. Surely this is a condition that should be remedied.

A friend of mine told me last week that "student government doesn't mean anything on this campus. No one pays any attention to its wishes." No doubt, many will take issue with this statement, which is a little extreme, but it seems to represent a widely-held student viewpoint. Certainly, student government should be important; none should have reason to say that it is of no importance. But, until the average student is informed and kept informed of its actions, that view will prevail. Those responsible for the actions of student government should try to see that more news of its activities is given out, if they expect the intelligent cooperation of the students.

Sincerely,

Joseph Callaway.

To the Editor:

Although the present campaign for saving food was inaugurated in order that more can be sent to the needy European nations, very little has been offered in the way of a plan whereby the individual can see what he is saving and feel a more personal interest in the fate of the hungry millions.

One way William and Mary students can help the situation is by refusing to take food they cannot eat. They need not deprive themselves of anything in order to save the food which is left on their plates and thrown away or fed to animals.

The cafeteria management, too, can help by instructing the servers to refrain from piling large quantities of food on the students' plates. Hundreds of pounds of food can be saved each week by giving the students only what they will eat.

The signs which greeted GI's in army mess halls carried the exact sentiment of the food saving program as it should be instituted at William and Mary. They read, "Take what you want—eat what you take."

Sincerely,

Bill Greer.

To the Editor:

The suggestion that we adopt an original alma mater, as presented by Miss Betsy Platt in last week's letter, is a noble one.

Similar observations have been made in the past years; in fact, several proposed songs were written by undergraduates who sought to sever the Cornell relationship. Somewhat concerned with the situation, I made inquiry as to the possibility of establishing a new alma mater for William and Mary.

One member of the music department faculty agreed that we need an original song, but proceeded to explain that we are destined to remain "high above Cayuga's waters." It seems that Phineas Hossenfeffer, class of '09, thinks the present opus is magnificent. Any progressive move to alter the sacred song is unthinkable. In short, our usually dormant alums would catch the next jet plane for Williamsburg at the mere mention of a change.

It's a pity to disrupt nostalgic memories; but if the present student body is in favor of a new alma mater, now is the time to make the change.

Would it be possible to hold a referendum on the matter? Individual protests accomplish nothing. If the great majority of students favored an original song, we might silence Brother Phineas and his clan.

We may prefer the Cornell classic; but if we want an alma mater of our own, let's secure one before we leave these hallowed halls.

Mr. President, I call for a vote.

Sincerely,

Ronald King.

To the Editor:

During the past several weeks, I have noticed the elaborate posters, banners and handbills being used by the freshmen in campaigning for their class officers. In contrast to the lethargic upper-classmen's spirit, this brilliant and original display of enthusiasm is remarkable.

I should like to inquire, however, how much money is being spent by the various parties, and whether there is a limit on the amount which can be consumed? Certainly, these campaigns are costing a considerable amount, and in view of the fact that there will be only one elected to office, it is rather disheartening to think of the broken spirits and deflated pocketbooks that will be a natural outcome. If there is no limit, one should be set up; if one now exists, it must be very high, and hence should be lowered. In this way students who cannot afford to put on an elaborate campaign but have potential leadership ability will be on equal footing with the other hopefuls.

Sincerely,

An Upperclassman.

Alpha Chi Wins First Prize In Parade; Dean Hudson Returns For Homecoming

Alpha Chi Omega won the first prize of $40 in the Homecoming parade on Saturday morning, Nov. 8, with their float representing Uncle Remus followed by singing pickaninnies predicting that "William and Mary will win today 'cause that's what Uncle Remus say."

SAE's huge touring car, containing a band and followed by representatives of all classes from 2,000 B. C. to the class of '65, took the second prize of $30. Third prize of $20 went to the Tri Delt's underseas scene with King Neptune and his mermaids. Fourth prize of $10 was awarded to the Sigma Pi's for their representation of "Humphrey" of Joe Palooka fame.

Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, Kappa Delta and Chi Omega received honorable mention.

Further Homecoming activities included the crowning of Pat Jones, of Dallas, Tex., as Homecoming Queen between the halves of the VMI game in the afternoon. Rear-Admiral W. L. Ainsworth, Commandant of the Fifth Naval District of Virginia crowned Pat, who was escorted by her court, which included Betty Littlefield, Ruth Maroney, Jeanne Owens and Jo Wattles.

Dean Hudson returned to William and Mary for the seventh time to play for the dances on Friday and Saturday nights. The music was presented from a bandstand decorated as a small circus tent. The circus motif was carried out in the small gym with a side show exhibit.

Dean Hudson first hit William and Mary in 1937 after he was graduated from the University of Florida. His popularity is due, in part, to the psychology he uses in selecting where and when to play different types of numbers. He and his 14-piece band favor slow, sweet and smooth songs, but they break them up with the novelty numbers that draw the crowds from all over the dance floor to listen to Hudson, Kenny Martin and Betty Willoughby put over "What's the Use of Getting Sober If You're Gonna Get Drunk Again," "Moun-

Backdrop Club Will Hold Try-outs For Varsity Show On November 13

First try-outs for the 1948 varsity show will be held before production chiefs in the small cafeteria on Thursday, Nov. 13, from 7-10 p. m.

With the script nearly completed, the heads of the show hope to speculate on a tentative cast after the auditions. A sign-up sheet will be posted on the inner doors of the little "caf", and students will be auditioned in the order in which their names appear on the list. Ronald King, producer of the varsity show, stated that "a number of other clubs are meeting on Thursday night, but people who wish to try out should be able to spare five minutes sometime between seven and ten. If we don't have enough time to hear everyone," he continued, "we'll have another conclave next week. "Members of last year's cast," See BACKDROP CLUB, Page 6

Tribe Treks To Roanoke To Face Generals Saturday

W-L To Aim Air Assault At Redmen

Washington and Lee's Generals, capable of playing some excellent football but not always doing so, meet the William and Mary Braves in a Southern conference game at Roanoke Saturday at 2 p. m.

Washington and Lee and the Indians have been running two-three in the conference for several weeks, but the team from Lexington dropped down several notches last week following their defeat at the hands of Virginia Tech.

Coach Rube McCray will be out to make sure the Generals do not pull a trick like they did last season when they ran up 18 points before falling before the Big Green team, 34-18.

Indians Stronger

A stronger William and Mary team than faced VMI last Saturday is expected to take the field at Roanoke this week. Center Tom my Thompson, wingback Henry Blanc and tackle Harry (Red) Caughron should be in shape for extensive play. Caughron was out a large part of the VMI game after being knocked unconscious, but he returned at the end of the contest.

Thompson, out last week with a bad knee, and Blanc, who was suffering from a bad cold, have their needed rest sitting out the Keydet clash and are expected to start.

Last SC Game

The game will be the last of the year for the Generals against a conference foe, although the Braves have still to meet Bowling Green and Richmond.

Starters for Washington and Lee are expected to be Jim Fahey and Mark Saur at ends, Don Ferguson and Joe McCutcheon at tackles, John (Killer) Kay and Ed Capuano at guards and Dyke Norman at center.

Playing in the backfield and handling the anticipated W&L passing attack will be Brian Bell and Charlie Harrington at halfbacks, Jim Stark or Dick Working at quarterback and Walt Michaels at the line plunging spot.

On the basis of comparative scores, William and Mary should have little trouble with Washington and Lee. Games like the one with VMI last week, however, show that anything can happen when W&M is playing against other state elevens.

Thomas' Runners Down Naval Team

Taking the first seven places, the William and Mary cross country team won over the Marine team of the U. S. Naval Retraining Command at Norfolk last Friday, 15-50.

Clyde Baker, who has been turning in outstanding times all season, ran the course in 6 minutes, 17 seconds. The exact length of the course was not known.

Finishing in a tie for second place were Wallace Hedman and Bob Carter, with Ernest DeSamper coming in fourth and Bob McPeck finishing fifth.

David Bowling and Bob Engel finished sixth and seventh, respectively.

Coach Al Thomas said that the meet scheduled with Richmond Friday might be moved ahead and the team go to Raleigh to participate in the Southern conference meet next week.

William and Mary's football team was one of the highest scoring outfits in the nation last year, running up 347 points in ten games.

SMOKE SIGNALS

By BILL GREER

It is hoped that the game with VMI here last week was "the bad one" which football teams have occasionally and "must get them out of their systems," for such a performance against a stronger team might prove disastrous.

Perhaps the chief point of criticism of the team's play Saturday was its pass defense and lack of same. Two of the three VMI touchdowns were set up through the air, and the other was scored on a pass following an interception.

The way the passes were caught, with the receivers in the open much of the time, was inexcusable. The passes were, however, of the desperate type attempted only when a team is 28 points behind in the last quarter, or when similar circumstances prevail.

Passing by the Keydets was excellent, with Bob Thomason and Joe Veltri, a freshman, doing some accurate throwing with the aid of good blocking. The VMI throwers were tackled only seldom.

Another important factor in the showing of the team was the absence of three regulars for a large part of the contest. While the replacements for wingback Henry Blanc, center Tommy Thompson and Red Caughron played well, there was still a certain amount of difficulty arising from putting new men in three of the ten positions which had been virtually the same all year.

Officiating Off Form

Not only was there something to be desired in the performance of the William and Mary team, but the officiating was off its usual standard. The officials were not playing drop-the-handkerchief as they did in the game with Wake Forest, but they missed some rather obvious infractions of the rules.

Perhaps the most flagrant case in the final period when Buddy Lex passed to Marvin Graham. The defensive left halfback jumped on Graham's back and knocked him to the ground and probably caused him to miss the toss, which fell at his feet.

The officials aren't supposed to catch every infringement of the rules — the participating teams do not expect it. Flagrant violations in the open when the officials are close by and observe the play should be called. The loud chorus of boos from the William and Mary cheering section supports that idea, too.

Bowl Talk at William and Mary

Following the decisive victory over Wake Forest by the W&M Indians, talk of invitations to post-season bowls spread across campus and across Virginia. At the early stages of the campaign, there was only talk, but at the VMI game was a representative from the Alligator Bowl of Jacksonville, Fla.

Commenting on the game, he said he realized William and Mary's football team was stronger than the performance and score in the VMI game would indicate, but he declined to say anything further.

A game which would be much more satisfying to residents of Virginia would be the one proposed by the Civitan club of Richmond with William and Mary playing the University of Virginia at Richmond, with the proceeds going to charity.

Such a game would settle, once and for all, the controversy as to which of the two outstanding teams of the state is the stronger.

William and Mary and Virginia should play every year. If the teams cannot get together on a regular date, the early December meeting such as the one suggested by the Richmond club would suffice.

Another possible solution would be brought about by the state legislature in a move similar to the one by the legislature in Alabama. The Alabama group threatened to cut off appropriations from the University of Alabama and Auburn if they did not resume their latent gridiron rivalry.

Gridiron Guessing

The Indians should be better this week, and will be out to make a prettier record. . . they should win by 35 or 40 points over W&L. . . Wake Forest to top N. C. State and North Carolina to win over Maryland in top Southern conference games. . . Another long afternoon for the Richmond Spiders against the Virginia Tech eleven. . . VMI Keydets to return to the victory column against The Citadel. . . Michigan continuing to win, this week against Wisconsin. . . Notre Dame to stop Northwestern. . . Penn to edge Army in a close one. . . Penn State to slip past Navy. . . Purdue to drop Pitt. . . Texas to rope Texas Christian and Southern Methodist over Arkansas. . . Georgia Tech over Alabama and South Dakota State over Morning-side.

Howard Smith To Coach JV Cage Hopetuls

A 14 game schedule was announced for the William and Mary Junior Varsity basketball team by Athletic Director R. N. (Rube) McCray last week. At the same time, he stated that Howard Smith, director of the intramural program, would coach the Jayvees.

Listed on the slate are games with many of the service teams in the area, and contests with both the William and Mary Division at at Norfolk and the St. Helena extension there.

The new Jayvee coach is a William and Mary graduate, finishing in 1943. He has been directing the intramural program since his return from the service, and his additional job will be with Coaches Barney Wilson and Al Vandeweghe.

The basketball squad is molding into shape, and Coach Wilson has stated that offensive work will be taken up in the near future.

Al Skultety Leads Papooses To 20-7 Victory Over FUMA

Sparked by Al Skultety, freshman fullback from Fairfield, Conn., the William and Mary Papooses scored a 20-7 win over a fighting team from Fork Union Military Academy last Friday afternoon.

The Papooses did their scoring in each of the first three quarters, while the visitors pushed their lone tally across on a pass midway through the final period. Ed Magdziak ran 69 yards for the first Little Green score, a 15-yard pass accounted for the second, and Skultety plunged for the last touchdown.

Midway through the first quarter a punt return by Don Howren for the Papooses put the ball on the William and Mary 29. After Howren gained two yards through the middle, Magdziak faked the ball to Harry Hilling, spun around, cut through a wide open hole in the center of the line, and ran the rest of the way down the sideline for the first score.

In the second quarter Herb McReynolds recovered a FUMA

VMI Falls Before 'Flat' W-M Attack

Coach R. N. (Rube) McCray described exactly the performance of his team with the one word "flat," regarding the unimpressive 28-20 victory of the William and Mary Indians over VMI at the homecoming game here Saturday.

The outcome of the game was apparent from the first time the Indians got the ball on the opening kickoff and picked up five straight first downs while driving as far as the 18 yard line of the Keydets. The method in which the Tribe came through with the necessary touchdowns, was considerably different than usual.

Individual stars were difficult to find—the William and Mary team, lacking a couple of regulars, was generally dull with the exception of Knox Ramsey and a couple of others. For VMI, Captain Chi Mills played a fine game at tackle and was the mainstay of the team from Lexington. Freshman quarterback Joe Veltri, who threw two touchdown passes looked good for that team, too.

Early Scoring Bids

Each team made a bid in the first quarter. After the W&M drive had stalled on the VMI 18, the visitors marched to the Indian 26 before Joe Gantt kicked out in the William and Mary one-foot line. Stan Magdziak kicked out on first down to move the ball out of the danger zone.

Starting on their own 42, the Indians capitalized on Stan Magdziak's passing to take them to the 10 yard line, and Magdziak sliced through center to score standing up. He added the extra point, also. The next time the W&M team got the ball, they opened up with a drive which carried all the way to the one-foot line of the Keydets before stopped by a goal-line stand. Two plays after Gantt kicked out, however, Magdziak passed to Vito Ragazzo on a scoring play which ate up 22 yards.

Tribe Ahead At Half

Magdziak kicked the extra point and the Tribe led at halftime, 14-0.

Another short punt put VMI in a hole in the third period and set up the next score. Jack Cloud, Buddy Lex and Herb Poplinger carried the ball to the VMI 10, and

Cloud took it over from there in three plays. Magdziak added the point.

A few minutes later, in the fourth period following a VMI punt, Magdziak passed to Ragazzo for a 35 yard scoring gain. Stan, "The Toe," added the fourth extra point and the Tribe was through scoring for the day.

Out-of-Bounds Kick

Ed Magdziak kicked off out of bounds twice in a row, and the officials awarded the Keydets the ball on the W&M 40. On the next play, Veltri passed a long one to Jimmy Gill, who gathered it in as he went over the goal.

Taking the ball on their own 40, the Keydets went to the 10 on the passing of Veltri, and Ray Tamalis skirted his right end for the second VMI score. Carrington added the extra point. Joe Gantt intercepted a pass by Buddy Lex to set up the last marker, running it to the Tribe 14 on a 30-yard run-back. A few plays later, Vince Ragunas plunged over from the half-yard line for the touchdown. Carrington converted once more.

In the later stages of the game, William and Mary opened a drive which carried as far as the Keydet 25 yard stripe as the game ended with the Big Green ahead, 28-20.

Tribe Runs Up 2,186 Yards While Foes Gain Only 1,115

While they have been running their point total to 201 for the season, the William and Mary Indians have gained a total of 2,186 yards in seven games, for an average of 312.3 yards per game. The Indian overland attack has netted 1,367 yards, while the aerial assault has been responsible for gains totaling 819 yards.

Leading gainers on the ground are Jack Cloud, with 335 yards rushing, Henry Blanc, Herb Poplinger and Buddy Lex. Topping the passers in yardage is Stan Magdziak with 379 yards gained on the 26 passes he has completed.

Trouble For Foes

William and Mary opponents have had considerably more trouble gaining against the Braves, picking up 580 yards rushing and garnering almost as much, 535 yards, through the air. Opposition rushing averages are just under 83 yards per game against the Indians.

The Indian team has run up 96 first downs as against 53 for the combined opposition. Stan Magdziak and the other Tribe passers have connected 55 times in 126 attempts for an average of better than 42 per cent, while the opposition has hit home 39 times in 111 attempts for an average of 35 per cent.

Punting Edge

In punting, the Braves edge the other teams, 39.2 yards to 36, on the average, figured from the line of scrimmage. Big Green players have returned kickoffs for a total of 441 yards while bringing punts

SAE Remains Unbeaten; Vets Move Into Tie

As a result of two victories last week, SAE became more firmly entrenched in first place in the fraternity touch football league with a record of three victories. Pi Kappa Alpha and Sigma Rho have won four games each, but both have tied games.

In the Independent loop, the strong OD "A" team and the Flying Vets are deadlocked for first place, each with two victories and a single tie.

Three Quarter-Finalists

Three men have reached the quarterfinals of the intramural tennis tournament, and Director Howard Smith has stated that no dates have been set for the remaining playoffs, and that all remaining contests would be played and not forfeited because of a deadline.

Quarter-finalists include Olson, an independent who defeated Updike of Lambda Chi, 6-1, 8-6; Jack Hight, of Kappa Sigma who won over Forsey, an independent, 6-2, 6-4; and Harvey Levine of Pi Lambda Phi, who defeated John Slezak, an independent, 7-5, 7-9, 6-2.

Gill Appointed

Smith also announced that Bob Gill had been appointed to serve in the capacity of student assistant helping to run the intramural program.

Men's intramural tennis is planned for the pre-Christmas period this year, and the tournament will consist of a preliminary elimination and the finals.

Jim McDowell Plays Second Year At Guard

By Earle M. Copp

James E. "Bull" McDowell is one who plays a very rugged game of football at any time or place, but especially for Coach Rube McCray's 1947 edition of the Indians.

Jim, who is also known as "Moose", alternates with Bill Saffko in the right guard position for the Braves. It is always a question as to whether Bill or Jim will start the game, and who plays the most, for both are equally good. McDowell was the replacement for Saffko when Bill suffered an injury early in the season.

Starred At S.M.A.

He hails from South Charleston, West Virginia where he was graduated from South Charleston High School in June of '42 and moved to Staunton Military Academy for a year. At S. M. A. he played for the team that won the state championship, and was named on the All-State team of that year.

He left for the Marine Corps in July, 1943, and was discharged in April, 1946. He entered college the following September, and began to show that he wasn't an easy man for the opponents to pick on. He began in the same role last year, alternating with Saffko, but when the latter got hurt in the Miami game, McDowell was moved into the first string and a starting position.

Started Late

"Moose" was late in starting practice this year, but was in shape by the time the game with V.P.I. rolled around and has been playing consistently good football ever since. He is an inch under six feet, but tops the weighing scale at 235 pounds.

His play for the Big Green last year not only earned him a letter as a freshman but gave him a berth on the All-State third team. His work this year, and for the next two years, certainly will discourage any opponent from going through his position.

A pledge of the Sigma Rho fraternity, Jim is a member of the Varsity Club. He is 22 years old and a sophomore in academic standing. Aside from football he is keenly interested in swimming.

Sophomores Plan Dance

The sophomore class will hold a Sadie Hawkins dance on Saturday, Nov. 22, from 9 p. m. to 12 midnight following the Bowling Green game. The college orchestra will play at the co-ed event and admission will be 50 cents stag and 75 cents drag.

Norfolk Man To Open Restaurant In Town

Remodeling work has been started on the first floor of the Stringfellow building here, formerly the Williamsburg USO, which is to be used by Harvey Lindsay of Norfolk as a restaurant.

New partitions are being constructed for the central room and kitchen spaces and a trash shed is being added to the rear of the structure which is outside of the restored area on the north side of the main business block of Duke of Gloucester Street. The second floor of the building will remain in office space. It is now being used as the reservation office of Williamsburg Inn and Lodge.

The new restaurant will be air conditioned and will have a seating capacity of 74, using booths and counter seats. Interior fixtures will have a modern decor. No date has been set for its opening.

George J. Ryan Speaks At Rally

Urging the students not to let anyone reminisce to them about the "good old days" during Homecoming, Dr. George J. Ryan, professor of ancient languages, reminded them at the pep rally last Thursday night that they have the best team ever seen in Virginia.

The rally, held behind the Wren building, was followed by a torchlight procession to the bonfire at the stadium and then by the traditional snake dance.

The cheer leaders were on hand to lead the cheers and songs, assisted by the freshman Indians and the college band under the direction of Alan C. Stewart, assistant professor of fine arts.

Scarab Club Meeting Will Feature Williams

Thomas Williams, staff photographer for the Restoration, will show a series of slides of pictorial scenes at the meeting of the Scarab society on Thursday evening, Nov. 13 at 7 p. m. in the fine arts building.

Williams, who has resided in Williamsburg for almost two years, is responsible for all photographs of the Restoration used for public lecture series or magazine articles such as those shown in a recent issue of Holiday. Prior to his association with Colonial Williamsburg, he was connected with a corporation in Pennsylvania and later spent three years as a Navy photographer.

Membership in the Scarab society is open to all students interested in architecture, sculpture, photography, painting and related fields. The club is not limited to fine arts majors or those taking fine arts courses.

Library Discloses Recent Additions To Its Collection

Miss Margaret Galphin, associate librarian, has announced that a list of recent additions to the library collection will be circulated on Sunday, Nov. 15.

Mrs. Rose K. Belk, circulation and reference librarian, has selected several examples of the books that might be of particular interest to the students.

Pirate Laureate: Life and Legends of Captain Kidd, by W. H. Bonner, includes the factual story and the legends of Kidd's life. The author also traces the influence of the famous pirate on the works of Irving, Cooper, Poe and Stevenson. A refreshing novel is presented in an American edition of Emily Eden's The Semi-Attached Couple. The author is a cousin of Anthony Eden, who has written the introduction for this edition.

Kenneth Scott Latourette, who is known for his familiarity with the Orient, its customs, and its history, has written another book on this subject, A Short History of the Far East. A book that has won two literary prizes and sudden renown for its author is Christ Stopped at Eboli, by Carlo Levi. This book has venously been called a diary, an album of sketches, a novelette, a political essay, and a sociological study.

A new volume of poetry by one of the most popular modern poets is Age of Anxiety, by W. H. Auden. The famous contemporary writer, Thomas Mann has now produced a book of sixteen non-political essays treating literature, music, and psychoanalysis. Essays of Three Decades contains pertinent reflections on Cervantes, Goethe, Tolstoy, Wagner, and Freud.

First Issue Of Royalist To Appear In Fortnight

Marcia Magill, editor of the Royalist, stated that a list of the newly-appointed members of the staff will be published in next week's FLAT HAT.

"The first issue of the Royalist should appear in two weeks," said Marchia. All types of material are desired for the second issue, but particular emphasis is to be placed on articles, poetry, and humorous writing. The deadline is Dec. 2.

Istomin Provides Enjoyable Program For Some Tastes

By Andrew C. Halgh

Eugene Istomin, young American pianist, favorably heralded by the metropolitan critics, played last Tuesday evening in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium before a large and cordial audience. His program was unhackneyed, and provided something of enjoyment for a variety of tastes.

Beginning with Beethoven's "Moonlight" Sonata, Mr. Istomin showed, in the writer's opinion, some of the defects of immaturity. The simple pathos and expressiveness of the first movement suffered from the attempt to make it over-expressive. Certain rhythmic mannerisms were repeated to the point of irritation. The second movement, begun with fine freshness and charm, later exposed similar abuses of the tempo rubato. In the third movement, the artist disclosed a flair for the dramatic, which characterized much of his playing.

His style was better suited to the Chopin Preludes. There was skill and subtlety in the pedalling, and technical control and sureness in the rapid pieces. The player's admirable virtuosity enabled him successfully to surmount the dullness in the upper registers of the instrument at his disposal.

A good deal of tonal variety and subtlety entered into the playing of the Debussy Prelude, and particularly into the Ravel Suite, which was perhaps the finest exhibition of the evening.

Mr. Istomin certainly possesses great talents, both of a musical and of a pianistic nature. The audience manifested its enthusiasm in prolonged applause, to which the artist responded with three encores: the familiar Fantaisie-Impromptu of Chopin, a South American Dance by the Argentine composer Neapolitano and Bulgarian Rhythms, from the Mikrokosmos Suite by the recently deceased Hungarian composer Bela Bartok.

Pan-Hel Council Changes Thursday's Rushing Hours

"A slight change in rushing hours for Thursday of rush week, Dec. 11, was approved at a Pan-Hellenic council meeting last Monday," stated Virginia (Ginny) Whittemore, president.

The change was made because of the play which will be presented that night, and the hours are to be 3-5 p. m. and 6-8 p. m. instead of the previously scheduled time of 4 to 6 p. m. and 7 to 9 p. m.

Lois Willis Announces Sophomore Echo Posts

"There is a desperate need for sophomores to fill staff positions on the Colonial Echo", announced editor Lois Willis. "Any sophomore who would like to work on the year book should see me as soon as possible."

The editor further wished to remind all students that they should return proofs to Chidnoff at the earliest possible time. If this is not done, it is quite likely that the wrong picture will appear in the year book," Lois declared.

Dulcie Dukes will speak on "Student Life at Exeter" at a mass meeting of the YWCA tomorrow at 7 p. m. in Washington 300.

Bot-E-Talk

We made it a good one, says Botty reminiscing about the week end. We got the spirit up Thursday night at the pep rally and carried on from there. A Homecoming was a coming home for all sorts of nice people.

Fritz Zepht was back dating Nancy Grube and double dating with Donnie Leper and Doc Ware. Fun, no? And Eddie King was most happy with the smiling Betty Kah home again. Peggy Walker making Bill Ozenberger happy once more. And George Leary showing the sights of Williamsburg to his little gal up visiting. Jackie Shutze driving all the way from Richmond just to be here and then, of course, happened to run into Herb Poplinger. That St. Louis woman up to see Ollie Root. Then there were the usual big events taking place, like Duke Isaacs using oleo for his buttered rum since butter is 90 cents a pound; Anne Lewis getting Freddy Martin's Phi Tau pin after the big dance and Marjorie Pitchford with George Sheenhan's SAE pin. At a timely moment: Jeanne Owens getting engaged to Jack Groves as Fullback Jack Cloud ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Romantic, huh? And Dennis Cogle importing, as Jeanne Harrup dates Baxter Bell for the week end.

The 7 to 7 poker game on third floor Monroe with Lyman Chenaault and Whitey Albertson coming out with a few extra pennies.

And wasn't it fun to see Mark Waldo taking a little time out from his WSSF to date Anne Beekley?

At the dance Friday were seen: Penny Allenbaugh with her date from out of town who owns a car, and Snake Drake and Betty Roberts. The "Brother-Sister Act" of Ken Wright and Margaret Haynes, Frances Saunders and Terry Dews, Doug Williams and Mollie Prince, Suzelle Hull and Jim Vickers.

Sammy Banks was back with Wicky Wierum. Did'ya hear him? And did you see Jane Seaton with Bob Cook, and El Pendleton with George Willis? All sorts of rings were floating around, in addition to ones beneath the eyes: Harriet Hinman with some cut glass from Harold Eubank and Ellie Westbrook with the same from Bud Heider. It's rumored that Ollie Amon has given likewise to a gal.

Carry on 'til you're carried out, Botty

Dulcie Dukes, exchange student from England's Exeter College, follows a precedent set by country cousin Kay Caffrey in joining the William and Mary Players. Dulcie will make her initial bid as the Condomine's confused maid, Edith.

A pair of freshmen will be united in theatrical wedlock as Douglas Williams and Elizabeth Bartlett enact the roles of Doctor and Mrs. Bradman. Miss Bartlett doubled in brass in Skin while Mr. W. is trying his dramatic wings as the veddy British physician.

The seven performers, with director Hunt, have completed the preliminary "blocking out" activities and are now concentrating on characterizations. Meanwhile Roger Sherman and Albert Haak are preparing the set for the Coward comedy, aided by student crews.

"The annual World Student Service Fund drive will take place tomorrow through Saturday. I would like all the students to acquaint themselves with the work of this relief organization. The money raised by this fund by the students of the United States are added to those raised by the students in thirty-eight countries for the students and universities of countries ravaged by war. This relief program for universities is considered an essential part of world-wide reconstruction and rehabilitation as planned by UNESCO. I hope you will all ask the solicitors who call on you to tell you about the Fund, so that when you give you will give with the feeling that you are a part of the world-wide community of students."

John E. Pomfret.

Off-campus solicitation will be headed by Frances Saunders for a goal of $100. All solicitations will take place tomorrow through Friday.

Thomson's Comments Reveal Versatility And Variety

By Leslie Morgan

The first remark Helen Thomson, chairman of the judicial council of WSCGA, made when this reporter requested an interview was the usual "Oh, dear"—followed by silence. That was not quite the type of information desired, but it was soon followed by far more eloquent comments.

Concerning the judicial committee, of which she is chairman, Helen said, "I think that a better attitude towards the council could be cultivated; too many people think of it merely as a police force. If they could show more cooperation and responsibility, it would be possible to have more liberal rules." In connection with her position as chairman of the council, Helen is a member of the General Coop, the Senate, and the Assembly. She remarked that the Assembly was "functioning efficiently for the first time since I've been here."

Psychology Major

Academically, Helen's interest is psychology, and making Dean's man of the WSSF drive this year, assisted by Bud Weintraub, treasurer.

The WSSF purpose is to assist students and professors in the universities of war-devastated countries through contributions of American students and professors. Cooperating with organizations in 18 other countries, America will further assistance in monetary grants, scholarships, clothing, medical relief and care, books and study materials. All forms of relief are administered through the offices of World Student Relief in Geneva and Shanghai.

list and Mortar Board give an idea of her success at it. During her first three years of college, she was active in the modern dance club, which was "quite a fad" with her, and the Music club. This year, the vice-presidency of Mortar Board and the presidency of Kappa Kappa Gamma help fill her schedule.

During summers, Helen has held a number of jobs near her home in Rye, N. Y. One that she found particularly interesting because of her interest in psychology was being companion to a girl who was recovering from a nervous breakdown. She added however, that "I was ready for a breakdown myself by the end of the month. The girl was supposed to be physically active, and we spent days walking and the like. As I am not the athletic type, I was constantly exhausted!"

Cosmetic Salesgirl

Another job Helen held was that of salesgirl in the cosmetics department of Franklin Simon, and here she had ample opportunity to use psychology in salesmanship. She noted that one could always sell men anything, "particularly expensive items to make an impression." To balance that, she added that she had difficulty keeping a straight face when old women asked for "youth creams."

After she graduates, Helen plans to enter the field of personnel work. If that is not immediately possible, she may attend a graduate school. She should certainly do well in this work if versatility and interest in people are sufficient qualifications.
